MODULAR Cabinet Revisiting a Classic

The Christie Modular barbecue cabinet concept was created in 1996 to provide a robust and simple alternative to brick and built-in barbecue structures. Today, the Modular series' industry-defining shape is synonymous with the iconic Australian public barbecue.

Revisiting a Classic.

The Christie Modular cabinet embodies the spirit of the iconic Australian public barbecue. Its robust design and timeless aesthetic suit any setting. For nearly 30 years, our Modular cabinets have been synonymous with safety, durability, and simple assembly and maintenance. The 2024 design refinements carries this legacy into the future.

TIMELESS DESIGN

The stainless steel benchtop is hygienic, easy to clean, and creates a safety zone around the barbecue cooktop. The cabinet is available in an extensive range of colours and off-the-shelf in Aztec Silver powder coating, which blends seamlessly into urban and rural environments.

ENVIRONMENTALLY RESPONSIBLE

Modular cabinets include an extruded aluminium frame, a stainless steel benchtop, and ventilated stainless steel panels and doors. All materials have significant recycled content and are highly recyclable while offering maximum durability.

FLAT-PACKED CONVENIENCE

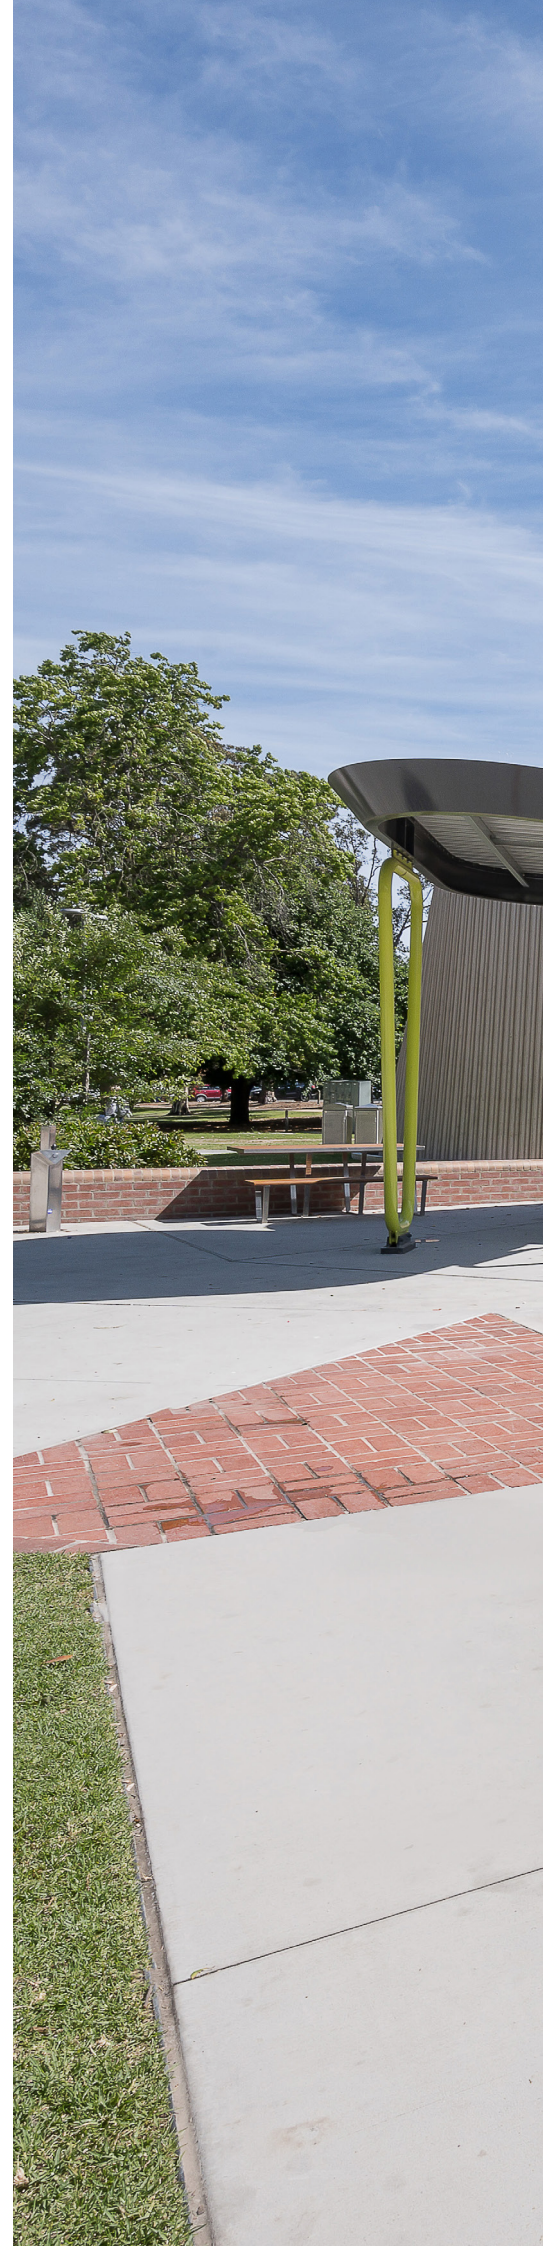

Communal barbecues are increasingly installed on rooftops and in other urban locations. We ship Modular cabinets flat-packed for easy site access, saving you transportation and offloading costs.

EXTENSIVE OPTIONS

The Modular design offers several customisable configurations, including different door options, benchtop cutouts for cooktops or sinks, and interchangeable panels for adding cleaning or gas storage solutions that can be tailored to your requirements.

ERGONOMIC WASTE CONTAINER

An optional Waste Container Bracket provides a raised container platform that improves safe handling and storage clearances. Together with our Easy Drain Grease Trap, it allows for fast, simple cleaning and easy disposal of cooking waste.

The Christie Modular Barbecue Cabinet stands out for its functional and aesthetic appeal. It is an ideal centrepiece for any outdoor cooking area. The customisable design offers flexible storage and options, while its robust construction and durable materials ensure longevity in the harshest environments.

Modular barbecue cabinets are available in various powder-coating colours and finishes. Buy it off-the-shelf in popular, durable Aztec Silver, or explore our extensive made-to-order colour and finish options at dachristie.com or call us on +61 3 9708 2999.

Christie Modular cabinets are designed to provide the same robust durability as traditional brick surrounds. Manufactured from extruded aluminium and stainless steel, they are built to endure the most challenging conditions and meet the needs of the most discerning users. Available in three sizes - Small, Standard, and Large, these cabinets can be customised with Christie cooktops, sinks, and doors, so you can tailor them to complement your project perfectly.

STANDARD MODULAR CABINET

Standard Modular cabinets offer compact flexibility. The double-module benchtop has space for two cutouts. You can select an off-the-shelf configuration of one cooktop with extra bench space or a made-to-order configuration with cooktops and sinks. The single cooktop configuration allows for an additional door and storage for cleaning materials or gas bottles.

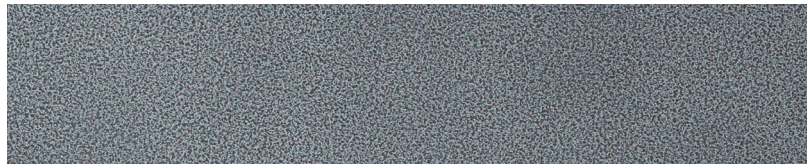

LARGE MODULAR CABINET

Large Modular cabinets provide complete flexibility for groups and busy sites, with space for up to three benchtop cutouts. You can select an off-the-shelf configuration of two cooktops with central bench space or made-to-order configurations of up to three cooktops or sinks. Configurations with open bench space allow for additional doors to store cleaning materials or gas bottles.

Modular barbecue cabinets are available off-the-shelf powder-coated in Dulux Surreal Effects Aztec Silver. The finish, created using tough polyester thermosetting powder, has an undulating texture with a pearl vein ripple.
